It is hoped that a large delegation from Glendale will escort Miss West to Huntington Beach. Her subject is "Vocational Education in California Schools.

Professor Taylor's chemistry class visited the Glendale Sanitarium yesterday morning, where they were given a complete demonstration of the X-ray machine and its mechanism.

Glendale Wins

Last Saturday the Glendale Union High School ball team took the lead in the County League by defeating Covina, 2-1, in a hard-fought game. The game was a see-saw affair. Each team was slightly up in the air, the first inning, each team getting one run. The score remained tied until the sixth inning, when McGillis reached first on an error and scored when West hit a smoky double to center. This ended the scoring for both sides. In the third and seventh innings, Covina got men on second and third, but they could not score. The feature of the game was the pitching of Lukens. He got in one or two bad holes, but managed to pull out without being scored on. He also fanned sixteen men.

Next Saturday the team goes to Monrovia. A hard game is expected but the local team is going good, and is confident of winning.

New Organization

A long felt want was filled when on Tuesday afternoon, May 9, the students interested in debating and public speaking assembled to form a society to encourage these activities. Mr. Howard A. Stickney called the meeting to order. Amid great enthusiasm and rousing cheers the following officers were electd: President, H. Alexander Scheuner; Vice-President, Samuel P. Durand; Secretary-Treasurer, Marion Lehman. Upon taking the chair Mr. Scheuner in a masterly address thanked the members for the honor which they bestowed upon him. The president then appointed as a committee on Constitution and first program the following: H. A. Stickney, Harland Durand and T. Croasdale White.

The meeting then adjourned to meet on Friday to hear the report of the Constitution committee. It is already in the air that the first debate to be handled by the society will be respecting the re-election of President Wilson. As this is a vital topic and as feeling concerning the present administration is strong both pro and con this event promises to be a thriller. Already several of the teachers have signified their intention to become members.

Prof. W. Darwin Root in commenting on the society said: "I am very much in favor of an organization of this kind because it tends to create an interest in the art of public speaking and in the discussion of the leading topics of the day. I am sure that this society will prove a valuable asset to the school. The keenest thinkers and more serious-minded persons of the school are members of this society and bid fair to become great persons in the future."

CHAPTER L, P. E. O.

Chapter L, P. E. O., will hold an all-day meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Nellie Maxwell, 203 N. Kenwood street. Important business will be before the meeting and a full attendance is desired.

RECORDS OF THE PAST

MRS. ELLA RICHARDSON POINTS OUT EVOLUTION IN TWENTY YEARS

"It is interesting," said Mrs. Ella Richardson, "to look back to the records of the past in order to measure the extent of the evolution of Glendale from embryo of a city to the dignity it has now attained. In looking over some old papers a few days ago I found that in 1888 Glendale had no morning mail service from Los Angeles and that it had no morning paper. It lay so much out of the ordinary line of communication with the big city that the inhabitants had to get along all day without knowing what was going on the face of the earth, till nightfall.

"At that time there were three great orange orchards belonging to Captain Thom, Judge Ross and Mr. Crow. It is recorded then that they were fortunate enough to escape without a suggestion of frost. Judge Ross in 1884 was furnishing his Glendale villa and a dozen new dwellings were being erected on the site of the city which had not then emerged out of the days when the people were 'dwellers in tents.'

"At that time the people were proud of the completion of Brand boulevard, which was 100 feet wide, with Verdugo on the east and Kenilworth on the west, with a line of ornamental trees and as the enthusiastic writer says, 'rivaling in beauty and attractiveness the famed Euclid avenue of Cleveland, Ohio.' Glendale was also looking for the completion of the Los Angeles and Glendale dummy line.

"From Three-mile house to Tropico the old San Fernando wagon road had been graded up and smoothed off. The public school under Miss Flora Denton and Prof. Hayes had an enrollment of 100 pupils and a grammar school under Prof. Barrett with a good attendance. Even then temperance was a favorite subject of lectures and Myrtle street between Central and Glendale avenues was being opened and graded.

"In 1887 there was a strong likelihood I read that the Southern Pacific would soon erect a depot and other buildings at Glendale, halfway between Los Angeles and Sepulveda. Messrs. Richardson and Gilbert had each made a tender of land to the railroad company for depot purposes. Glendale avenue was being widened to eighty feet. Other roads were being opened up through the valley.

"At that time the floods were just as troublesome as they are now. Year after year the rains swelled the stream in the riverbed and swept away a bank of sand piled up under the direction of the city fathers to turn the water into the Zanja Madre, and time after time the same old sand would be piled up again by the same crew of 'paisanos,' who had lived for years on this little bit of annual work.

"The Southern Pacific had begun work on sidetracks and was about to erect a fine depot building on the thirteen-acre tract donated them by W. C. B. Richardson. The people were petitioning to have the postoffice called 'Glendale' and not 'Mason,' which was a fortunate idea. A hotel was then projected and we read that lots had doubled in price, raising from $400 to $850. Verdugo land was bringing $500 an acre. The Glendale town hall was opened to the public. The assessor was around and the taxpayers were on the alert. Glendale was looking for the establishment of a weekly newspaper. Such were some of the conditions in Glendale and Tropico in 1887-88."

PACIFIC AVENUE P. T. A.

The Parent-Teacher association of the Pacific Avenue school will hold their regular meeting Thursday, May 11. At 1 p. m. the children's school work will be on exhibition, followed by the children's exercises. The interesting reports from all the standing committees will be given.

The election of officers will take place. The program will be interesting. Mrs. Fortune, Mrs. Yost, and Mrs. Ayars have charge of the social hour. The members of the association extend an invitation to all interested to come.

TROPICO TRUSTEES

OFFICERS OF NEIGHBORING CITY IN WEEKLY ROUTINE WORK

The Tropico Board of Trustees met in regular session Tuesday evening at the city hall at 7:30 p. m., with President Frank E. Peters, Fred A. Alspach, Chas. H. Henry, Walter C. Seal present; A. C. Boyce absent. The following city officers were also present: Margaret R. Coleman, clerk; Hartley Shaw, city attorney; I. C. Wasson, street superintendent; J. W. Gould, city marshal, and Dr. W. C. Mabry, health officer.

A communication was received from Leigh Bancroft stating that there must be some misunderstanding in regard to the $15.01 claim allowed him at last meeting, as it was his understanding that the claim had been offset by a previous adjustment. The clerk was ordered to ascertain what previous adjustment he referred to.

A communication was read from the State Compensation Insurance Bureau stating that the City of Tropico would not be entitled to any refund of fees paid as the amount paid out was greatly in excess of amount paid in.

The city engineer reported that he had the stakes set for the culvert at Adams street and would have the street-grade stakes set by the time the contractor had the culvert completed and ready to begin work on the street.

He also reported that he had purchased the set of maps for the city and now had them in his office.

Report of S. E. Brown, city treasurer, for the month of April, 1916:

Balance on hand.

April 1	$1450.15
Receipts during month	173.41
TOTAL		$1623.56
Disbursements	$ 836.62
Outstanding Warrants	346.33
TOTAL		1182.95
Bal. on hand May 1, '16		$ 440.71

Mr. Framm was appointed inspector of the Moore avenue improvement.

The city attorney reported that he had conferred with former city attorney in regard to the contract previously made with Mrs. Larson in regard to the conditions under which the East Acacia street improvement was to be made, but as yet had failed to find a copy of the contract. He was given more time for the investigation.

The city attorney informed the board that the Keystone Iron Works had filed a protest concerning the assessments for payment of the ornamental lighting standards along San Fernando boulevard. The board passed Resolution No. 229 fixing the dates of hearing of the protests on Tuesday the 16th day of May, 1916.

It seems as if the board is unable to come to any definite understanding as to the lighting of San Fernando boulevard. The Pacific Light & Power company will not connect the lights unless the city will enter into contract for one year from Oct. 22, 1916, and as the board does not wish to tie the city up in any such contract the matter was postponed indefinitely. And the chances are that the ornamental lights along San Fernando boulevard will remain dark for some time yet.

The street superintendent was authorized to notify Contractor Shillings, who has the contract for the improvement of Adams street, that it was the policy of the board established some time ago, not to accept personal bonds and that he (Shillings) would have to secure a security bond.

Dr. Duncan made application, in behalf of the temperance forces of Tropico, for the use of the city hall on the night of May 17 and at any other time up until the November election providing their meeting nights would not conflict with any stated meetings.

The street superintendent was instructed to trim the trees in the city's parkways, and also to repair the street crossings at Central and Tropico avenue and Central avenue and Cypress street.

Eugene Imler was granted a permit to sell fireworks from July 1st to the evening of July 4th.

The following demands were allowed and warrants ordered drawn for same:

Title Guarantee & Trust Co.	$217.92
City Towel Supply	1.50
Tropico Feed & Fuel Co.	8.20
W. C. Wattles	20.50
So. Cal. Gas Co.	.40
Title Guarantee & Trust Co.	2.50

Adjourned.

WONDERS OF NATURE

MISS CLEMENS GIVES VIVID DESCRIPTION OF GRANDEUR OF YOSEMITE

Miss Mildred Leo Clemens took the Tuesday Afternoon club and their friends on an excursion to the Yosemite Valley with its 800,000 acres of grandeur so vividly pictured by her descriptions as it was flashed on the screen, that one felt he had really truly taken the trip without the perilous rope climbing to gain the wonderful panorama from the heights, or the dangerous slides which are necessary to obtain a view of some of the world famous beauty spots.

Beginning with Sentinel Rock, which is 3500 feet high Miss Clemens gave splendid descriptions of the views of El Capitan, Glacier Point, The Three Brothers, Half Dome, and many of the gigantic granite wonders which are a part of our own California. The splendid views of the many falls, including the world famous Bridal Veil and the Vernal falls were so real you could easily imagine you could hear the roaring of the water as it tumbled down into the vale below.

The snow scene made a striking contrast to the eternal greenness pictured on the views taken earlier in the year, one could almost feel the chill of it in its reality. The snow storm, the rising of the sun and the golden sunsets, all of them God's natural wonders, were very beautiful on the gigantic peaks towering high in the air.

To add life to these scenes Miss Clemens pictured a little Pappoose, a deer in its native haunts, a black bear, and a cunning little squirrel eating his morning meal.

The speaker said: "The Yosemite Valley! With its familiar scenes and its masterpieces, the paintings of nature is known to all. But of the vast area north of the Yosemite, along the crest of the Sierra Nevada mountains, little is known. But by the taking over and opening of the Federal Government the past summer, Tioga Road with its chain of Chalets, this marvelous region becomes accessible to the traveler within less than a day's journey from the valley itself. The Government's plan for the future includes a large hotel on the floor of the valley for the accommodation of the public seeking for nature's 'Beauty Spots.'"

Miss Clemens' rendition of Robert W. Service's poem completed this enjoyable program:

Have you gazed on naked grandeur where's there's nothing else to gaze on,
Set pieces and drop curtain scenes galore,
Big mountains heaved to heaven,
which the blinding sunset's
blazon,
Black canyons where the rapids rig
and roar?
* * * *
Have you swept the visioned valley with the green stream streaking through it,
Searched the vastness for a something you have lost?
* * * *
Have you known the Great White
Silence, not a snow gemmed twig aquiver?
(Eternal truths that shame our soothing lies).
* * * *
Have you seen God in His splendors, heard the text that nature renders?
(You'll never hear it in the family pew);
The simple things, the true things,
the silent men who do things—
Then listen to the Wild—it's calling you.

UNUSUAL TALENT

One of the star performers of Joseph's Bondage" that was deserving of a great deal of credit was Dr. P. O. Lucas of Tropico. At the last moment one of the soloists was unable to perform and Dr. Lucas stepped in and carried three different characters, that of Rueben, Simeon and Chief Butler, and was considered by those behind the scenes as the real "star" of the evening. His change of costume was so complete that the audience did not realize the same man represented the three characters. To Dr. Lucas is due an immense amount of credit.

Another who deserves special mention is Miss Eva Thede as Benjamin. In her sweet way and with her beautiful voice and graceful carriage she took the part of the young son and carried it off splendidly. She has a brilliant future before her.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, MAY 10, 1916

NATURE OF TRUE MANLINESS

There is manliness in the nature of the men who are spending their days and nights in the trenches of Europe because they believe in an ideal of humanity. It is noble to lay down one's life for an ideal. As the Latin poet says, "To die for one's country is sweet and worthy." To live for one's country is equally worthy and just as sweet. It is also just as difficult. The poor widows and bereaved mothers who are working bravely on amid the ruin wrought by the cruel war are true heroines and their actions will shine as the sun in the day when everyone's work is tried of what sort it is.

Virtue, in its Latin root, is equivalent to manliness. The ancients imagined that the two qualities were identical. A real man was a manly man and a manly man was a virtuous man. To them as to us a true man was something more than courageous, for that quality is shared with him by the creatures of a lower order; and the lion or lioness, or even the poor fox, that pants and doubles along hill and stream and wood in defiance of its pursuers, is just as courageous as the man who rides cheerfully to certain death in battle or stands up to the armpits in water in the soaking trenches of Europe.

In the closest analysis of the word "man" (Latin "vir") we find that it includes such qualities as courage, frankness, self-respect, kindness toward the weak, forbearance, patience, meekness, temperance, chivalry toward women and all who are in need. It is impossible to imagine a manly man who has not these qualities along with generosity, hospitality, lack of suspicion and who in the utmost development of his nature is not endowed with faith, hope and love.

It says a great deal for human nature that the average man is really manly. The average man is neither a coward nor a liar. He is not lazy; he is no mean tyrant oppressing those who are in no position to resist and cringing to those who are strong. The word "gentleman" in its origin means a "gentle" man, which is a quality that is compatible with true courage but is very much the reverse of the creature of "tooth and claw" who rends all who will not immediately yield up their possessions to him.

Manliness naturally includes womanliness. The very word that in modern language expresses the ideal of womanliness is "lady" (that is of course, in the grammatical English of culture and not in slang). The "lord" was in the original Saxon "hlaford" (loaf giver) and "lady" was "hlafdien" (loaf server). The idea of the true man and woman was "service." The word implies the reverse of everything selfish. It means thoughtful care for and understanding of the condition and the needs of others and a kindly and beneficent regard for the wants and needs of humanity.

To live is ofttimes more difficult than to die and the true courage of life, its true manliness and true womanliness, consists in facing whatever comes, willing to live if there is work to do; willing to die if death is to bring something more for the world in which we live. The world is full of such heroes and heroines. The present age in the labors, sacrifices and prayers that it is evoking from frail humanity is perhaps more strenuous and insistent in demands than any other age has been. It asks a higher morality, a deeper sense of truth and of patriotism than any other age has done and its demand is answered by millions of conscious thinkers who show that they appreciate what true manliness and true womanliness mean.

DEMOCRACY OF THE SWISS ARMY

Switzerland is a country that has cut a large figure in the course of the present war in Europe because, while not at war itself, it is the best example of efficient preparedness without militarism that the world has as yet seen. Exception might be made in favor of Australia and New Zealand but as these countries have based their military systems on that of Switzerland that country may be taken as the type of what is most advanced in the way of a citizen army.

Every Switzer has to serve in the army. There is no possible evasion unless absolute deformity or mortal disease. The very first words in the Swiss military drill book are, "All Swiss owe their country a military service." There is no favoritism in the Swiss army and no officering of competent linesmen or cavalrymen by incompetent officers merely because the officers have money.

Competency is what is desired of the army; so graft and nepotism are banished. No nephews of presidents or of senators, or henchmen of a powerful Tammany hall or social lepers with money and no brains are to be found among Swiss officers. Political pull is not permitted to touch the army and there is no chance of valuable lives being thrown away by inefficient direction. When the Swiss soldier goes out to fight he knows that he is under a trained officer selected by experts and tried and proved to be efficient.

Brains and ability are what count in the Swiss army. Everybody starts in the ranks. Any man who shows special adaptability for any particular branch of military science is forced to take special examinations for promotion. He cannot refuse promotion. The examinations are rigid. There is no social pull that can get a man through them.

Whether a Swiss youth comes from the poorest or the richest family he must be whatever his ability makes him. The rich man's son may remain a private all his days, while the son of the poor man may be his military superior. This is the only kind of army, according to Swiss statements, that is safe and strong. Money power in the official ranks of an army means rottenness and inefficiency.

In Switzerland the village banker's son, who is a private, will have to salute the bank clerk in his father's office when that clerk marches out clad in his officer's uniform. This spirit and discipline is the life of the army of little Switzerland. It has kept her safe in the midst of the greatest war the world has seen. Any country, say the Swiss, that wants to remain alive, must have plenty of citizens who can become full-fledged soldiers at a moment's notice.

Wherever leadership in an army is based on something besides ability that army is doomed. Wherever an army is honeycombed with politics that army is doomed. There are none of these things in the Swiss army. There is lots of hard drilling and constant practice in all up-to-date methods of warfare and the consequence is that much as Germany would like to march through Swiss territory she dare not take a chance against that efficient little army that mans and holds every rock and inaccessible peak in that land of mountains and is prepared as Andreas Hofer did of old to the Austrians to drive any invader, no matter how strong, out of the land.

From her mountain eyrie Switzerland, confident in the modern training of her army and in the efficiency of its officers and men, contemplates the war without a tremor and commands the respect of all Europe.

TROPICO'S WATER RATES—CONTRASTED WITH GLENDALE'S

As a basis of rate fixing for Tropico water service the Railroad Commission of California has made a valuation "with no attention given to existing title," and with no expression of opinion as to water rights. It dismisses the subject with the observation: "It is unnecessary to discuss the ownership of the plants or water rights further than has been done incidentally, or to make findings on the subject." The question of actual ownership of either the service, plant or water rights is therefore yet "in the air."

The fact of "possession" alone is recognized, and conceded to be in the Title Guarantee and Trust company as trustee, though for what specific object no attempt is made to determine.

The cost of the physical property of the system, less liquidated depreciation is $49,709. To obtain "the cost of the physical property upon which an interest return should be allowed" the Commission eliminates the "prospective reservoir site" on the hillside above the south end of Boynton street, appraised at $1340, "as not yet useful in the system." Also approximately half the services and meters now in place, installed at the expense of the consumers, at $15 each, 350 in all, amounting to about $5250. By the elimination of these sums there remains, as the cost of the physical property of the system upon which an interest return should be allowed, the sum of $43,119, according to the Commission's estimate.

In proceeding to fix the rates, "which will produce an adequate provision for maintenance and operation of the system and return upon the property" the Commission estimates that the net revenue for the current (from the rates proposed and finally ordered) based upon the use in 1915, will be as follows:

Operating Revenue	$12,750.00
Maintenance and Operation	$6,360
Sinking Fund for Depreciation	1,270
Net Operating Revenue		$ 5,120.00
For Interest return on $43,000 at 6 per cent	$2580
For Net Profits	2540	$5,120.00

The Rates and Their Results

The monthly minimum rate of 75c for the first 400 cubic feet is a deserved reduction to the minimum rate payer, who constitute 42 per cent of the whole number. The use of each 100 cubic feet a month in excess of the minimum will add 10 cents to the month's bill of the user. This will add 30 cents each to the bills of 25 per cent of all users of 700 cubic feet per month, and give 67 per cent of all users a decided reduction. The remaining 33 per cent of all users will be served with an additional 100 cubic feet per month at 10 cents each, their rate for 1000 cubic feet amounting to $1.35 per month.

A Striking Contrast

While the reduction of rates generally is quite decisive they are still strikingly in excess of those of Glendale, where there is a service of 1000 cubic feet per month for $1.00 and of an excess of 100 cubic feet over for 3 cents, or a service of 2000 cubic feet per month for $1.30. In Tropico the rate for 2000 cubic feet a month will be $2.35. The contrast is striking.—NELSON C. BURCH.

NEW PLATINUM MINE

Just as the supply of platinum, that precious metal which has become almost indispensable in many of the arts and sciences, has begun to grow alarmingly scarce, a new source of supply has been discovered in the mountains about Ronda, in Southern Spain between Algeciras and Gibraltar.

The Spanish government has taken possession of the ground on which the find was made, and has arranged for developing the mine under the direction of the geological institute. An appropriation of $30,000 a year will be made for the necessary drilling, machinery and other expenses.

It may develop into a better-paying mine than many of the famous old gold mines of the locality.

The regular meeting of Glendale City W. C. T. U. will be held with Mrs. J. N. McGillis, 205 Lomita avenue, Friday, May 19. The meeting opens at 2 o'clock with a prayer service. Plans for the organization of Young Campaigners and L. T. L. will be led by Mrs. Ada Steele and there will be stray threads from the convention.

Personals

F. O. Moore made a flying business trip to the Antelope Valley the first of the week.

Ed Moffatt and wife of 1510 Hawthorne are the proud parents of a 7½ pound baby girl.

Mrs. McCurdy of 1425 Burchett St. is entertaining as her guest Mrs. Sophie Lousby of Los Angeles.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Ira Joseph of 348 N. Glendale avenue, Tropico, on Monday, May 8th, a 9¼ lb. baby girl.

George N. Cox, Jr., of Los Angeles, was a visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Woodard, Maryland avenue, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Hunchberger, 344 S. Central avenue, entertained a party of eight Los Angeles friends at dinner last Friday.

Miss Etta Agee, girls' secretary of the Los Angeles Y. W. C. A., spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Weaver, 235 S. Kenwood.

Mrs. Olsen of Los Angeles and her daughter, Miss Helen Olsen, mother and sister of Mrs. George Daniels, 300 S. Central avenue, were visitors at the Daniels' home Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Farrell, 123 E. Third street, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Church, 221 Orange street, motored to N. Manhattan Beach, Sunday. On their return they had supper at the Farrell residence.

T. C. Malone of Louise street returned Monday from a most enjoyable trip to Little Bear lake, where he caught many trout. He found, however, quite a gloom cast over the district by the recent sad drowning of four visitors in the lake.

The Mission Circle of the First Baptist church will be entertained at the home of Mesdames S. J. and O. A. Lane, 1017 Chestnut street, on Thursday afternoon at 2:30. Mrs. C. H. Cunningham will give the lesson on the study book.

J. G. Hunchberger and A. W. Tower spent two days last week at Tehunga canyon, where they had a most enjoyable fishing trip, catching a number of trout and finding much physical profit in the outing in the fine atmosphere in the canyon.

Dr. Philip Sumner Spence, who has made extended investigations, declares that country school children are much more unhealthy than city school children, since sanitation and other health measures are given more consideration in the cities.

David J. Graham, 235 E. Third street, has entered on chicken ranching on a large scale. He has built a number of very superior chicken houses on his spacious property and has stocked them with 1200 White Leghorns of a very fine laying and breeding strain.

The regular meeting of the Central Avenue P. T. A. will be held Thursday, May 11, at 2:30 p. m., in the school auditorium. Election of officers for the ensuing year. Program by the children. Refreshments. Everyone cordially invited.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Sabin of Ocean Park and Mr. and Mrs. George Ebersol, also of Ocean Park, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Justema, 305 S. Central avenue, Tuesday. Both the Sabins and Ebersols are former Chicago friends of Mr. and Mrs. Justema.

An interesting and profitable meeting of the newly organized West Glendale Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held at the home of Mrs. Tronsiers, 1653 Oak street, Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Ruby J. Smart, president of the Glendale City Union, addressed the ladies on "The Mother at the Window."

Mrs. J. E. Farrell, 123 E. Third street, received a letter from Mrs. Mary W. Edwards, who recently left this neighborhood for Oakland, where they are among a colony of El Paso friends. Miss Cooper's many friends in Glendale will be glad to learn that she is getting along admirably in her new surroundings.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Keleher, 228 N. Louise street, returned Friday last from a most enjoyable trip of two weeks in San Diego, in the course of which they visited all the important points of interest in that neighborhood. Among other places they went to Tia Juana, the famous Mexican border town, and were much interested in the garrison and the fortifications there. Visiting the Exposition they found that there had been great additions to the exhibits. The foreign exhibits of some of the leading countries that took part in the San Francisco exposition are now in San Diego. San Diego is full of visitors and the weather is beautiful.

FIFTH SINGLE TAX MEETING

To satisfy the demand for a larger place in which to hold these meetings, the next one will be held in the West Glendale school building, May 18, at 7:30, and as usual a general discussion will follow the chief speaker's address. Mr. Chas. James has consented to speak at this meeting. All cordially invited.

PRESBYTERIAN NOTES

The Session at their regular meeting last evening transacted considerable important business. A special committee on Boys' Work was appointed, which shall have power to carry out plans in the interest of the boys, such as picnics, entertainments, hikes, summer camps, gymnasium classes, etc. The committee is as follows: Mr. John Camphouse, James Newton and Prof. Harry Howe. A similar committee will be appointed for the girls.

In connection with the four-days' Bible study conference, to be held June 1-4, plans are being made to have a Fellowship supper in honor of Dr. Pratt, the teacher of the "People's Class."

Mr. C. L. Custer of Los Angeles has been appointed by the Session as choir director, and will begin at once to organize a chorus on a large and efficient scale. Mr. Custer had been connected with several large choirs in Los Angeles. The choir will meet on Friday evenings and will be thoroughly organized.

An important meeting of Trustees, Deacons and Elders has been called for May 26th to consider the whole matter of enlargements. The present church building is already inadequate for the growing work. Whether the present building can be enlarged, or whether a new structure will be suggested, is to be determined. The Sunday School is also cramped in the present quarters, and within a year more room must be secured.

Twilight communion service will be held on July 16th, preceded by pre-communion services July 9-14.

The hour of Sunday evening service, beginning June 4th, is to be changed from 7:30 to 7:45. This action was suggested by the Ministers' association.

Miss Emily Hardin, through her will, has made a liberal gift to the work of the church. The amount will probably be used in the plan of enlargements.

This Wednesday evening, 7:30, Miss Buxton of the Forsythe Memorial School of Los Angeles will speak. Miss Buxton is a most interesting speaker. This meeting is under the direction of the Woman's Missionary society, and will be held in the auditorium of the church.

Every Wednesday evening from this date forward the prayer meetings will be held in the auditorium.

VALLEY VIEW

A Mr. McCracken and wife have rented C. H. Woolsey's place at 1629 Riverdale Drive and will raise fancy White Orpingtons, having bought Whitten's flock.

Mrs. Sarah Ward, who has been living in the rear house at 1438 Hawthorne, will move to Sherman this week to live with her daughter, Mrs. J. B. Work.

Mrs. Edna Anderson and little daughter Elizabeth of Kansas City, Mo., were here last week to visit Mrs. Anderson's aunt, Mrs. W. C. Bradley, 1617 Oak street. They are now up in the mountains with Mrs. Cora Deacon, Mrs. Anderson's mother, who is quite ill.

GLENDALE FOOTHILLS

Mrs. Yorba of Casa Verdugo, who has been visiting friends in Pasadena during the past two days, returned home Thursday.

Miss Moran and Mr. Helslen of Los Angeles were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Connors, 1662 Kenneth road, Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kipper of Los Angeles were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Drohan, Kenneth road, Wednesday.

There is much talk in the foothills district at present about joining with Glendale. The question is debated with much interest in all gatherings in the homes here. While there are some who favor annexation to Los Angeles there are more who advocate entering Glendale. Glendale has an excellent water supply and that is what the foothills need above all else at present.

Mr. McKesson, the well-known real estate man of Los Angeles, who has large real estate holdings in this district, was a caller at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Connors, 1662 Kenneth road, Wednesday. He is deeply interested in the annexation question and is anxious like all the unbiased residents in the foothills district to find the best solution of the question.

CONGREGATIONAL AUXILIARY

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the First Congregational church will hold a Colonial tea at the church parlors, Thursday afternoon, from 2:30 to 5 p. m. Some of the ladies will appear in colonial costume. Refreshments will be served and many games will be played. All ladies are invited. The committee in charge of the proceedings consists of Mrs. H. W. Yarick, Mrs. E. L. Schuyler and Mrs. H. L. Bullinger.

VOTE FOR MAY QUEEN

The following is the result of the voting for May Queen for the Tropico Carnival, to be held May 15: Jeannette Seaman, 2198; Gladys Gaarder, 1605. The others voted on in order are Dorothy Carmack, Bernice Adams, Elsie Springer and Dorothy Shaw. Jeannette Seaman will be the queen; Gladys Gaarder, first maid of honor and the others maids of honor. This contest at one penny a vote netted $42.65.

TICKETS ON SALE

Tickets are now on sale for the "Voice of Conscience," the new Alumni play to be given Thursday and Friday evening, May 11 and 12, at the Palace Grand theater.

The tickets are being sold at Cornwell & Keltys, 407 Brand Blvd., and also the Tropico Hardware So., San Fernando road.

The fund derived from the play goes to the Glendale High School Scholarship.

J. O. C. CLASS

The regular business meeting and election of officers of the J. O. C. class of the First Methodist church was recently held at the home of Lois Spickerman, 236 N. Maryland, with Miss Spickerman and Lora Maxwell as hostesses. Twenty-two members of the club were present.

The following officers were elected: Elizabeth Arrington, president; Daisy Johnson, vice-president; Mary Wagnon, recording secretary; Alta Starkey, corresponding secretary; Anna Starkey, treasurer.

Dleicious refreshments were served by the hostesses. A very pleasant evening was enjoyed by all.

GARDEN SOCIETY INVITED

Members of the Glendale Garden society are invited by Mr. and Mrs. Norton H. Wells of Tropico to visit the Forest Lawn cemetery next Saturday, May 13. The gracious invitation has been accepted and much pleasure is sure to accrue from the visit. The cut flwer display of the Forest Lawn Cemetery Nursery at the recent Free Flower show was the object of much admiration. Members are asked to arrive at the nursery any time from 3 o'clock p. m. on Saturday afternoon. The president, Mrs. Nanno Woods, with other officials and members who do not possess automobiles, will take the street car leaving Brand at 3:15 p. m., Saturday, May 13. Friends will please accept this published invitation, as it is impossible to personally communicate with each of the 180 members of the society.

TROPICO FESTIVAL—CORRECTION

In the article concerning the Tropico Festival, to be held May 13, published in the Glendale Evening News, Tuesday, the statement was made that there "would be a Campfire supper for the children free." This was a mistake. The supper will be served cafeteria style at popular prices. The committee is anxious that this should be widely known as the cafeteria is depended on to make some profit that will assist the financial end of the undertaking.

CLEARING UP CONTROVERSY

Some slight confusion seems to have developed over the coming Alumni play. A moving picture play of the same name has recently been turned out by a film concern, but this is related in no way to the drama being produced by the local actors. There are real people of three dimensions. They walk the stage, speak, breathe, laugh, emote and cast shadows.

"My 'Voice of Conscience' is different in every respect from the screen tale," says the author. The play was fully developed and the dialogue half written before the other story was released. I have neither borrowed, bought nor stolen any part of the drama. It is entirely original, and any statements to the contrary are obsolutely false.

"Any such misstatements would not bring discredit to me alone. It would affect the Association and the Scholarship fund, and, incidentally, all who have the welfare of the High School at heart. Speaking of scholarships reminds me that the lonely little ninety dollars which we raised by last year's play have already made it possible for four people to continue their High School courses. Just think what we will be able to do after we have raised a respectable sum. Come on out, you people, and help us!"

And the show comes off on Thursday and Friday evenings.

GREAT QUOTATIONS

Why aren't more gems from our great authors scattered over the country? Great books aren't within everybody's reach.—Coleridge.

MOTHERS' READING CIRCLE

The regular meeting of the Mothers' Reading Circle of the Columbus Avenue district was held at the home of Mrs. H. W. Yarick, 1447 W. 3rd street, Tuesday. There was a full attendance. Plans were made for securing new members. A number of additions to the membership are expected at next meeting. The circle proceeded with the reading of the book of study, "Children's Rights," by Kate Douglas Wiggin.

ELECTRO-MAGNET COUPLER

To expedite the shifting of cars in railway yards and lessen the dangers of workmen, an ingenious Swiss has originated a device which calls to its aid the electro-magnet. It has proved so practical and efficient that it is now in use in one of the busiest yards of Berne, Switzerland.

A locomotive with a storage battery, in provided with iron cylinders, instead of the usual buffers. They are placed where they are directly in line with the regular buffers of cars. The cylinders are wound about with coils of insulated copper, and, when an electric current is sent through, the cylinders become powerful magnets, exerting sufficient force to hold firmly the round heads of the car buffers that fit into the outer ends of the magnets.

When a car is to be shifted the engineer runs his storage-battery locomotive up aganst the first car of the train to be moved, and just before coming into contact with the electric current is sent through the coils. When the contact comes the effect is the same as if the car had been coupled. Each magnet has a grip of 3,800 pounds.

An electric switch controls the brakes of the locomotive and cars. No one is exposed between the cars, and the shifting can be done with exceptional speed and ease. The system is much more economical than the use of steam.

COMPLEXITY OF CELLULOID

Illustrating the complexity of the composition of many manufactured articles with which chemistry has to do, Prof. Robert E. Rose, of the University of Washington, took a picture frame of artificial ivory.

"It is made from cotton, nitric acid, and camphor," he said. "The first came from the fields of the southern states. Like wood it was made from air, sunshine and water. Nitric acid came from South America, where it is found in the salt known as Chil saltpeter.

"In order to get the nitric acid from it, it is treated with oil of vitriol and sulphuric acid, which in turn is made of roasted pyrites, steam and oxygen. The cellulose when acted on by nitric acid, forms collodian, and this is mixed with camphor, which comes from the forests of Formosa. The mixture is finaly pressed and becomes celluloid."

THE NEW GUIMPES

The guimpe with the plaited bosom is the smartest thing of its kind. It must be entirely white and preferably in striped mousseline—that material which possesses the merit of "trimming itself," says the New York Tribune. Some of these guimpes have inset puffings, a quaint touch which you may not care for. In that event, copy the flatlying models. If striped mousseline does not appeal to you, surely you will like guimpes in organdie, doubled and then plaited, or those in polka-dotted handkerchief linen.

UNIQUE CLOCK

At last an American clock maker has constructed what is almost an automatic clock. Operated by a thermal motor, under favorable conditions it is capable of running indefinitely, with no attention other than an occasional resetting for time correction.

The winding is effected by means of weights which are raised by the piston of the motor, the action of which depends upon a variation of the temperature. Its cylinder is filled with two liquids, one of which is heavier than the other, and has a greater expanding power.

When the temperature of these liquids is changed so that they expand, the heavier one is forced to raise the piston in order to escape. A subsequent drop in temperature, causing a contraction of the liquids, allows the clock weights to descend and thus wind the coil springs.

The piston is kept from rising too far by providing an overflow outlet, through which the heavy liquid is allowed to flow into a reservoir at the top of the motor. When the pressure is lowered the liquid returns to its former place. This makes the action of the motor practically automatic. A temperature variation of five degrees in twenty-four hours is sufficient to keep it running.

BURDEN ON ALASKA'S TEACHERS

The United States Government's bureau of education has issued an interesting report of the work among the natives of Alaska. Among other things it is stated that the tasks of improving the health of these people and improving their meager educational opportunities go hand in hand.

In this country where there is so much bigness, frost and need, schoolteachers in many cases have the added duty of carrying with them a doctor's medical outfit. The teachers are called on for heroic service when great storms sweep across the country, with many serious injuries to the natives and often loss of life.

The government is furnishing medical books to the teachers to enable them to treat minor ailments among themselves and the people.

SAVING PAPER

Extreme measures for conserving the supply of paper in England are to be taken. In all probability the newspapers will be smaller in size for a time and every one will use less paper in correspondence. Post cards will be used in communications more generally than ever.

The scarcity has called the attention to the fact that no other product is wasted so thoughtlessly as paper. Newspapers are thrown away as if they were of no value. In London every effort is being made by the president of the board of trade to encourage people to save waste paper, so that it may be collected and made over into a fresh supply.

HOW TO AVOID EYE STRAIN

Are you straining your eyes, and perhaps injuring them, every time you draw a chair up beside the reading lamp in the evening, to glance over the paper?

It is quite likely that you are, according to Professor A. W. Nye, professor of electrical engineering in the University of Southern California.

"Few people understand how to arrange a reading light to secure the best results, stated Professor Nye in a lecture to the students at the university recently. "They fail to realize that too much light is as bad as too little. Bad light results in eye strain, and that results in bad nerves. Many of our headaches, and many cases of poor digestion, are the result of bad lighting.

"The rays from the light should never be allowed to enter the eye, either directly or by shiny reflection. It is also undesirable that there should be a small spot of bright light in the midst of comparative gloom. The lighted portion of the room should be a circle at least eight feet in diameter, and the light should be placed at least six feet from the floor, not too close to the book or newspaper from which you are reading, and slightly behind you. If these conditions are observed, a Mazda light of 40 to 60 watts, with a glass reflector, will prove eminently desirable. The statement is frequently made that the best light for use in studying is an oil lamp, or gas, but this is not true. The reason people sometimes object to electricity is that it is easy to get a too bright light, which is injurious. If pains are taken not to have the light too strong, there is no objection to electricity whatever."

"BUTTON, BUTTON, WHO'S GOT THE BUTTON?"

If any reader happens to have some of the big fancy buttons that were so popular 10 or 12 years ago, let her get them out and furbish them up, for she will find them handy in planning her spring wardrobe. Buttons will play an important part in dress during the coming season. There are buttons of metal and crystal, engraved in various devices; buttons of jet and steel combined; buttons of enamel and buttons of rhinestone. There are buttons made to represent buckles, and the newest of all are buttons in shell mosaic work, both novel and dainty. From the smallest to the largest size, the button is here, to fill a decorative rather than a practical place.

WYNKEN, BLYNKEN AND NOD

Wynken, Blynken and Nod one night
Sailed off in a wooden shoe—
Sailed on a river of crystal light,
Into a sea of dew.
"Where are you going and what do you wish?"
The old moon asked the three.
"We have come to fish for the herring fish
That live in this beautiful sea;
Nets of silver and gold have we!"
Said Wynken,
Blynken,
And Nod.

The old moon laughed and sang a song,
As they rocked in the wooden shoe
And the wind that sped them all night long
Ruffled the waves of dew.
The little stars were the herring fish
That lived in that beautiful sea—
"Now cast your nets wherever you wish—Never afeared are we";
So cried the stars to the fishermen three:
Wynkn,
Blynken,
And Nod.

All night long their nets they threw
To the stars in the twinkling foam,
Then down from the skies came the wooden shoe,
Bringing the fishermen home;
'Twas all so pretty a sail it seemed
As if it could not be,
And some folks thought 'twas a dream they'd dreamed
Of sailing that beautiful sea—
But I shall name you the fishermen three:
Wynken,
Blynken,
And Nod.

Wynken and Blynken are two little eyes,
And Nod is a little head,
And the wooden shoe that sailed the skies
Is a wee one's trundle bed.
So shut your eyes while mother sings
Of wonderful sights that be,
And you shall see the beautiful things
As you rock in the misty sea,
Where the old shoe rocked the fishermen three:
Wynken,
Blynken,
And Nod.

THE ASH CAN ON WHEELS

Those who have ash cans to be emptied, having to take them up and down steps or pull and haul them about, will welcome the latest labor-saving device—two small wheels that may be attached, after the manner of a go-cart, to the bottom of the can. This makes the can wheel smoothly. The device is said to be good for hard usage.

"But, mother," she protested, "whatever can I talk to him about?"

The mother smiled. "You'll like him, dear; everyone does."
